

WOUNDED MAN, TRAIL OF BLOOD, SHERIFF'S CLUES

TRI-CORNERED RACE ACROSS OCEAN LOOMS

Weather Prevents Two Planes From Taking Off This Morn

BULLETIN

Curtiss Field, N. Y., May 14—(AP)—Captain Charles A. Lindbergh's monoplane suffered a minor casualty today as the mail pilot was testing it. In landing the tail skid was broken as he successfully attempted to avoid a group of photographers. Repair was said to be a matter of only a few hours.

New York, May 14—(AP)—A tri-cornered air race to Paris loomed as a greater possibility today as adverse weather conditions caused further postponement in the take-off of the two foremost contenders.

Clarence Chamberlin and Lloyd Bertand postponed their flight set for early today. Meanwhile Commander Richard E. Byrd seemed to be rushing plans for a hop off, Captain Charles Lindbergh, spectacular Loch-Invar from the west, is awaiting better weather.

Byrd, with a bandaged arm, carried since the monoplane America crashed in a test flight a month ago, had not been expected to hop off for several days but he made arrangements today to remove the sling.

Expect Better Weather
These developments, with a prediction that a change in weather could be expected over the week-end led to the possibility that Byrd might catch up with his rivals in preparation.

There was a feeling that Lindbergh might do the unexpected. Stirling aviation circles Thursday by landing here from San Diego, Calif., in two hops and record time, he soon had his single-seater monoplane, "The Spirit of St. Louis," groomed to continue eastward. "The minute the clearing comes," he said, "I'll be off."

His plane is at Curtiss Field with the Bellanca monoplane "Columbia," with Bertand and Chamberlin. Bertand intimated that the Spirit of St. Louis would not sneak away uncompromised.

Sportsmen's Spirit
Despite the friendly rivalry of the three groups, the spirit of sportsmanship rules them.

"Lucky" Lindbergh's only love is his monoplane. There is no womanly consideration aside from that of his mother in Detroit—in his impending flight.

Feminine admirers surround him whenever he appears and have observed with some dismay that he apparently is "girl shy."

Silence of its radio will be the SOS signal of the Bellanca monoplane on its flight. A wireless apparatus will send long dashes from the Columbia at one minute intervals.

At Paris everything was ready to receive the Americans.

ACCEPT BYRD'S PLANE

New York, May 14—(AP)—The America, three motored Fokker airplane, to be used by Commander Richard E. Byrd in the trans-Atlantic flight attempt, was formally accepted today by the Trans-Oceanic Company, after it had completed its final tests.

MOTHER FLIES TO SON

Curtiss Field, N. Y., May 14—(AP)—A flying mother of a flying son came today to see her boy before he starts for Paris. Mrs. Evangeline L. Lindbergh, who has twice flown from St. Louis to Chicago with her son on his mail route, arrived from Detroit, after a trip to St. Louis.

New Broadcasting System Perfected by Gen. Elec.

New York—Successful experiment with a new broadcasting system which will allow 1,900 stations to operate simultaneously was announced today by Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, owners of KDKA at Pittsburgh. The new system permits stations to broadcast with only one-half kilocycle separation. The system is defined as "frequency modulation" as against the present method of "power modulation."

Firing on American Ships in Chinese Water Frequent

Shanghai—Firing on ships passing in the Yangtze river is becoming more frequent. An American destroyer was fired on twice yesterday by the Chinese. A British destroyer and a British steamer also were targets for Chinese fire while at anchor. Several ships proceeding down the river under convoy were fired on near Nanking.

Records Fall in District Track Meet

LONDON RAID ON SOVIET TO SEEK GOVT. DOCUMENT

Moscow Considers Action of Great Consequence Now

London, May 14—(AP)—It was generally reported today that the raid on Soviet house, headquarters of the Russian Trade Delegation and Arcos Limited, Soviet commercial organization was made to discover whether a certain document of importance to the state, which has been missing several months, was to be found there.

After working all night police today completed the breaking open of the safes in Soviet house.

Today a large body of police was kept in the offices and in nearby streets. The search was begun Thursday.

Newspapers ceased to feature the discovery of arms, the Soviet explanation that the guns were samples of hunting rifles being generally accepted.

The search was made under a warrant said to have been issued under the official secrets act, dealing with the unauthorized possession of state documents. It gives police wide powers where possession of such documents is even suspected.

After a protest was made by the Soviet charge to Foreign Secretary Chamberlain, it was admitted by both sides here that a rupture of Anglo-Soviet relations was not at all out of the question. They declared the two countries were nearer a break than at any time since relations were resumed with the signing of the trade agreement in 1921.

Seven tons of documents, printed matter and correspondence have already been carted to Scotland Yard, it was estimated by Soviet officials, who charged that the police were still acting in "an absolutely arbitrary manner."

CONSIDERED SERIOUS

Moscow, May 14—(AP)—The raid on Soviet house in London, is considered here as of far greater consequence than the raid carried out some weeks ago by northern Chinese agents on the Soviet embassy compound in Peking.

Official quarters are representing as looking upon the London incident as reflecting the policy attributed to Great Britain, of seeking to place Soviet Russia in a false position by alleging that compromising documents have been found.

COLD WEATHER IS DISHED OUT FOR HIGH SCHOOL MEET

Rockford Stars Seem to Have Edge on Others at Day's Meet

Goose flesh was the outstanding feature in the second annual North-western Illinois track and field meet in progress today at the north side athletic field. However, a cold north wind with early sprinkles of rain, did not prevent the high school athletes of the northwest section of the state shattering former track and field records. In some instances the high wind favored instead of handicapped the contestants.

The field of spectators was limited to less than a score of onlookers at the morning session at which the preliminaries were held. Rockford high was leading all other schools on both track and field with Behr and Boyle as the outstanding stars. The qualifications for this afternoon's meet were as follows:

Those Qualified.
50-yard dash—Howland, DeKalb; Newell, Savanna; Bowers, Sycamore; Loan, Oregon; Watson, Mt. Carroll; Stiffen, Freeport. The 1926 record of 5.8 was reduced two seconds.

120-yard high hurdles—Brown, Rockford; Tracey, Freeport; R. Flannigan, Dixon; Keller, Dixon; Christensen, Savanna; Hartman, Rockford. 100-yard dash—Christensen, Savanna; Stiffen, Freeport; Kluytenauer, Freeport; Bowers, Sycamore; Jones, Hononegah; O'Malley, Dixon.

NEW BREAKS IN LEVEES ADD TO TOLL OF FLOOD

Illinois Men Reported on Investigations They Conducted

Alexandria, La., May 14—(AP)—Water a foot deep poured through a new crevasse today on Bayou Rouge three miles north of the Cottonport break and 170 miles northwest of New Orleans on the opposite side of the river. The new break which is about 200 feet wide, occurred late yesterday.

New Orleans—Waters from the Bayou des Glaives crevasses were adding to the submerged lands in Louisiana today, engulfing the famous "Sugar Bowl" and the Evangeline country. The latest collapses will increase the agriculture loss to the state by $10,000,000 and boost the state's homeless to nearly 200,000.

Springfield, Ill., May 14—(AP)—After having traveled with Frank R. Reid of Aurora, Ill., chairman of the congressional committee on flood control, through the flooded districts of Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana, Congressman W. E. Hull of Peoria today wired from Baton Rouge, La., as follows:

"We have covered the entire flooded district of Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi. Twenty-five thousand cubic feet of water coming down the valley. Towns and farms in flooded district all gone except on high land. Twenty million dollars will be needed to rehabilitate people so that they can make a living."

"For the lower part of Louisiana, the worst has not yet come. A great store of water will be let down when the levee break at Bayou des Glaives which must eventually go out. People are reluctant about leaving homes until water reaches the second story of homes. Secretary Hoover is doing great work and the administration has all available engineers, flyers and boatmen at work. There has been very little loss of life."

SUN COMES OUT FOR DERBY FANS AWAITING BUGLE

Horses Will be Called to Post at 4:40 This Afternoon

Louisville, Ky., May 14—(AP)—A muddy track, but a bright sun marked derby day.

Showers Friday afternoon and early today softened the course at Churchill Downs and caused the withdrawal of Saxon, one of the 18 entries. However the muddy track gave colts with a hankering for the sloppy traveling a better break.

The Times said today that Rolled Stocking, an outstanding candidate, had been sold by J. W. Parrish, Midway, Ky., banker, to E. P. Waggoner, oil man and rancher of Electra, Texas, for $110,000. Denial was made Friday that the colt had been sold.

The greatest throng ever to witness the Kentucky classic was in prospect.

Louisville, May 14—(AP)—A light rain fell early this morning, but the skies rapidly cleared and the sun was shining before noon. Fair weather was forecast for the afternoon.

Months of preparation will end in a spectacle that lasts two minutes and a few seconds.

The prelude—the placing of bets, the trip to the paddock to see their favorite perform, the dash for the rail, or a seat in the stands, will be followed by the shrill call of the bugle, announcing post time, set for 4:40 p. m.

With a roar, "they're off" from thousands, the race will be on.

Then the postlude—the placing of the rose wreath of victory upon the winner, the presentation of the gold cup and the horses will be returned to their stables.

The posting of the pari-mutuel results, the winding up of financial transactions and the postmortem will close another Derby day.

Shower Wet Track.

A brisk shower Friday muddled the track but workmen soon were bailing out the standing water. Generally fair weather prevailed today and the track should be in good condition.

Two or three of the 13 entries may be scratched insuring a field of possibly fifteen.

The entries are: Joek, Royal Julian, Saxon, Rolled Stocking, Buddy Bauer, My Son, Hydromel, Black Panther, Whiskery, Klev, Bewithus, Osmand, Rip Rap, Bostonian, Mr. Kirkwood, Fred Jr., War Eagle and Scapa Flow.

The Whitney entries, Whiskery and Bostonian, at probable odds of 6-5, were indicated as the favorites, with Rolled Stocking second at 5-1.

The fact that the track would be "dull" was believed to be in favor of one of the western horses. Royal Julian, Hydromel, Rolled Stocking and Fred Jr. are among the animals whose stock is believed to have been boosted by the condition of the oval.

However Bostonian, Klev and Scapa Flow, from the east are also "mudders."

It was estimated that more than 25,000 fans from the Chicago district alone would be present.

Saxon, the Green Tree entry, was scratched this morning. He injured himself slightly while being shipped from the east.

ABANDON FLIGHT OF LOS ANGELES TO NORTH LANDS

Fogs Render Efforts of Seekers for French Aviators Futile

BULLETIN

St. Johns, N. F., May 14—(AP)—Government officials today asserted there is no foundation for the report that the missing French fliers, Captains Nungesser and Coli had been found in Trinity Bay.

Washington, May 14—(AP)—A proposal to send the airship Los Angeles to Labrador in the search of the missing French aviators has been abandoned by the navy department. Secretary Wilbur also disclosed that both the navy and the coast guard had suspended the search being made around Nova Scotia and the Gulf of Maine, because of the fog and the futility of further search there. He said a flight of the Los Angeles to Labrador had been abandoned because of the diminishing supply of helium and the distance from 2400 to 2800 miles.

HOPES ARE DWINDLING

New York, May 14—(AP)—Theories and vague reports today kept alive a rapidly dwindling hope for the safety of Captains Nungesser and Coli. The fifth day in which the French airmen were overdue in their 3,800 mile flight from Paris to New York saw a slight strengthening of the belief that the aviators might be lost in the New Foundland wilderness.

But only negative reports developed from searching parties, vessels in the north Atlantic and the navy's driftlight Los Angeles after a 200 mile flight from New Jersey to Nantucket, Mass.

President Doumergue of France has cabled President Coolidge expressing deepest appreciation for Mr. Coolidge's message of sympathy over the disappearance of the fliers.

SAW PLANE MONDAY

Harbor Grace, N. F., May 14—(AP)—A woman resident of Harbor Grace and two men in Bear Cove, near here, reported today that last Monday morning they saw an airplane passing over. The men said it was painted white.

The woman, Mrs. Alice Kelly, said it was about 10 a. m., Monday when she saw the plane.

The men, Eben Peddie, and his son, asserted they saw the plane at about the same time. It was going north-west, they added. Bear Cove is a small fishing village east of Harbor Grace.

Previously several residents of Harbor Grace reported they had heard an airplane engine between 9 and 10 a. m., Monday.

Seven Injured When Auto Turns Over on Route Two Pavement

A Buick sedan, owned and driven by Sam Pierce of Joliet, section foreman for the Illinois Central railway company, skidded and turned over on the route 2 paving south of Dixon at the Bahen filling station last evening about 11 o'clock and two of the seven passengers in the car were badly cut about the head by particles of broken glass and were rushed to Dixon to the office of Dr. G. P. Powell where their injuries were dressed, after which they were able to be taken home.

Mr. Pierce and family were returning home from Dixon and near the Bahen filling station south of the city, pulled over to the side of the road to permit another machine to pass. In righting his car, the wheels skidded, the heavy machine crossing the paving and turning over in a ditch. All of the occupants were cut and bruised and the car was damaged to such an extent that it had to be towed to a local garage. It was nothing short of miraculous that some of the passengers were not killed.

SENTENCES HAVE VARIED EFFECTS ON TWO SLAYERS

Mrs. Snyder Feels She Has Not Received Just Verdict

New York, May 14—(AP)—Sentences of death hanging over Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, have affected them in antipodal manner, it was revealed today.

Gray, perusing his bible in jail, sees himself "one of the best examples of what whiskey, lust and sin will ultimately lead one into." He is described as resigned to his doom.

Mrs. Snyder sees herself a victim of injustice and is prepared to fight the death sentence.

Gray's picture of himself was sketched in a note he addressed "To the Public."

"I wish to take this opportunity of thanking the many kind Christians who took time to pray for me and to send me letters of sympathy and literature of faith. Your efforts have not been in vain, for I have been saved."

Mrs. Snyder, Gray testified, does not "believe in God."

Sam Fletcher, 1837 West First street, is in the Dixon public hospital suffering from a gunshot wound and loss of blood, while Sheriff Ward T. Miller is seeking for a man who was shot shortly before 2 o'clock this morning in the cattle yard at the C. C. Buckaloo farm at McRoberts crossing, where it was reported that a man had been shot and was believed to be hiding in the barn. The sheriff and deputies hurried to the scene and made a thorough search, but were unable to find the wounded man. A Holstein calf with a rope around its neck and nose was in the barn yard, having been removed from a box stall in the barn.

Awakened by Alarm.

The recent theft of valuable cattle and sheep from the Buckaloo farm led the owner to install an electric signal system in the barn to the house and this morning about 1:45, the alarm sounded. Mr. Buckaloo and his son dressed and went to the barn, armed with a shot gun, and after waiting several minutes, saw a man coming out of the cattle section leading a calf by a rope.

The first shell in the shot gun failed to explode but the Fletcher home on the street, who cried out, dropped the rope and dashed back into the cattle shed. The sheriff was then summoned to the scene and arrived in a few minutes. A few minutes after the shooting, a Ford car without a muffler was heard to start up its engine. The car was parked near the McRoberts crossing bridge and went south to the Hill school road. It is believed that the car and driver were connected with the robbery and Sheriff Miller was still searching for the machine and driver. The car was traced for several miles from the scene before daylight this morning.

Find Fletcher Wounded.

Chief of Police J. D. Van Bibber received a telephone call at his home about 5 o'clock this morning, summoning him to the Fletcher home on West First street, where Dr. J. M. Lund had been summoned to administer first aid. Upon his arrival the chief found pools of blood on the floor and Fletcher's right arm from the elbow to the shoulder badly shattered. He was suffering from shock and the loss of great quantities of blood and was rushed to the hospital. In his condition, he was unable to give an account of the shooting, but is said to have given different versions at times when he was able to talk.

Same Sized Shot

Shot which was removed from the wound were of the same size as fired from the shot gun at the Buckaloo farm it was ascertained upon investigation this morning, being of the number two, chilled size. Neighbors residing in the vicinity of Fletcher's home told the officers this morning that he came home about 4 o'clock, more than two hours after the shooting west of town. The flesh of the arm had been blown away and the bones badly shattered and this morning it was doubtful if the arm could be saved and Fletcher was reported to be in deep shock.

About Two Years Ago a valuable calf was taken from the cattle barn at the Buckaloo farm, slaughtered and removed. About a year ago a valuable Holstein cow was brutally killed and left hanging to trees along Rock river west of the farm, the animal having been driven some distance and a wire fence to an adjoining farm cut, through which the animal was led to the scene of the brutal act. A sheep was also stolen from the farm a few weeks ago and about two weeks ago, another attempt was made to take cattle from the valuable Holstein herd.

Pet Dog Identified by License Tag on Collar

The advisability of listing a pet dog with the assessor was demonstrated yesterday when George E. Richards, 265 Monroe ave., had his pet returned to him through identification provided by the tag issued when he paid his dog tax. The pet was found by Mrs. Frank Adams, who communicated with Town Clerk A. E. Simonsen, the latter consulting the records and notifying the owner of the animal where he could find it.

The parcel, accompanied by a letter threatening violence if Nicola Sacco and Bertolomeo Vanzetti are executed, was taken from the mails by an alert postal employee. The letter was forwarded today to the governor with an accompanying letter from the postal inspector.

The threatening note read: "Governor of Massachusetts: I have succeeded in getting 4 pint of this. If Sacco and Vanzetti are going to be murdered I am going to get more and use it. (Signed) A Citizen of the World."

Orchestra Gave Excellent Concert

(Contributed)

The Orchestra of the First Methodist Church gave a concert last evening which was all we had hoped and expected of this fine group of players. There were eighteen and each one of them played his or her part with fine accuracy. Professor Johnston proved himself to be as good a director of orchestra as he is of choirs and trainer in voice. The special solos sung by Deming Hintz were unusually well rendered. Mr. Hintz has a rich, sweet voice, good diction and interpretation. His courtesy to his church in the use of his voice is greatly appreciated. He always receives a most hearty applause. Wallace Carlson sang as his first piece that number which gave him the state prize of Illinois as first baritone in the state. Of all high school students, and he responded with an encore which was finely received. The Criterion Quartet gave two selections which called for more, but the director did not wish to prolong the program. Their numbers were well done. The playing of Robert Kennaga was full of thrill and showed a fine type of musical art. His numbers on the xylophone called for more also, and the orchestra added to the program with a special number. Mrs. Orville Westgate is a true artist on the violin. She not only added luster to the playing of the orchestra, but in her special solo numbers she delighted her audience. Too much can be said of her fine playing in technique, interpretation and tone. She displays much real soul quality through her renditions. It is hoped that such fine concerts can be repeated in the near future, as it adds to the richness of our living. We are justly proud of our fine musical organizations and invite the public to hear them again next Sunday evening in several specialties.

Rev. E. C. Lumsden was the orator of the evening and gave a wonderful address on Cuba, which was enjoyed by all.

Excellent and instructive talks were made by Mr. Essig and Mr. Orthman, who outlined the doings in the Department during their present administration.

The National Administration was represented by Walter B. Taylor of Rockford who told of the work as done by his department throughout the 48 states.

Mrs. Hansen, the Department President, told of the work that is being done in the Auxiliary. Mrs. Hansen's visit was a surprise and not announced, but all were glad to have her present and to enjoy her wonderful description of the work being done by the Auxiliary.

Past Department Commander Fred E. Brown, Comrade Waters, Gus Hansen and John Cushman of Sterling; Commander Bremer of the local G. A. R. post, Comrades Goodwin and Street of Baldwin Camp, all gave responsive talks.

Miss Emma Holland, a Spanish War nurse, was elected as the delegate of Baldwin Camp at the convention to be held in Kankakee in June. Frank Drew will be the alternate. Miss Holland is the only woman member, U. S. W. V. in Illinois. The assembly eulogized Comrade L. W. Mitchell, our old comrade who has just passed away and all stood at attention in his memory.

Baldwin Camp and Auxiliary used every effort to make this reception a success and is making plans to make this Camp and Auxiliary one of the largest in this section, and all were very glad to have with them on this occasion the prominent leaders of the organization, both National and State.

At the close of the meeting the Auxiliary served a very nice two course buffet lunch.

Red Brick Closed Wednesday

The Red Brick school of state route closed Wednesday with a picnic and program over a hundred pupils, parents and patrons being present to enjoy the picnic dinner at noon and the fine program given by the pupils in the afternoon. Two readings by Mrs. Hubert Bahren added to the pleasure afforded by the program, and all were pleased with the announcement that the teacher, Miss Viola Bowers, will return to the school next term. Pupils neither absent or tardy during the school year just closed were: Charles Patterson, Frenia Reid, Terveer Hoyle, Arthur Benson and Florence Moore.

G. R. C. TO MEET MONDAY EVENING

Mystic Workers in Regular Meeting

The Mystic Workers held a regular meeting in Union Hall Friday evening. There was a good attendance, including a number of the Juveniles of the order. Two of the supreme officers were present, Frank W. Hough, the new secretary at Fulton, who fills the vacancy of Robert Toole, and Roy Rickoff and wife of Lyons, Ia.

Mr. Hough gave an address and spoke of its growth and of the large number of Juveniles the Mystics are receiving into the different lodges and that the membership is increasing from year to year. He also evidenced his pleasure in meeting with the Dixon Mystic Workers.

Mr. Rickoff spoke of the Mystic Workers and the work and also the Juveniles. He was here about three weeks ago, accompanied by his wife, and heard at that time that a committee of men were to act as the social committee so he thought he would bring his wife and the new secretary over to see what a committee of men could do when it affects the question of refreshments.

The men's committee served delicious refreshments and everyone present had a very nice time.

The next meeting will be held May 21st. Watch paper for announcement of same. The meeting then closed in regular form.

ORGANIZED CHARITY AT WORK.

In a communication to the Chicago Tribune a woman passed on to the newspaper part of a letter written from Vicksburg, in which there was implied criticism of the rigid machinery of the Red Cross. It was said that refugees do not get the help when they need it the most, just after they are rescued from the tops of trees and houses, where they had been clinging for hours and days. Reports in kind came out of Florida at the time of the recent disaster.

Organized charity will be criticized if it is loose in its rules the same as when it is rigid. When it receives money from the whole people, it must handle it by organized forces. Although organization in the end makes for speed and thoroughness, hours seem like days in such situations. Too much red tape slows down the processes, but the Red Cross is the best organization we have for such purposes.

There is the freer way of dispensing money, but the money that is collected from everybody must be spent under supervision, or there will be the reaction that comes from reports of waste and graft.

Fred C. Robinson, secretary of the grand lodge of Elks, told members of the lodge assembled in Rock Island last week what the order had done for Florida and in the Mississippi regions. When news came of the hurricane that swept Florida, grand lodge officials drew on the funds for $25,000. The sum was changed into bills of small denominations and was taken by airplane to the devastated district. That was the first real money on the ground. No airplane was used in sending currency to the flood district, but the Elk money was first on the ground.

Mr. Robinson explained that this money was used in the freer manner, the manner some people think the Red Cross should adopt. It was distributed for immediate relief. The object was to serve before the heavier machinery could be put into operation. If there is any left when the Red Cross organization gets into motion, it is turned over for use under its more strict supervision.

It may be seen that there is a difference between the two organizations. The Elks spend their own money and no questions are asked. It is their business alone. The Red Cross spends everybody's money, and must be prepared to answer a million questions.

The bulletin of the Red Cross issued May 7 indicates the thoroughness and the magnitude of its undertaking:

"Red Cross physicians are vaccinating at the rate of 8000 a day against smallpox and 10,000 a day against typhoid.

"Supplies including tents, cots and blankets sufficient to care for 5000 refugees were ordered to Alexandria, La., today.

"Emergency rations for 5000 refugees for two weeks were shipped to Lake Providence, La., last night, by rail to Vicksburg and by boat to Lake Providence.

"Shipments today included 10,000 loaves of bread, 8 field kitchens, 150 tents, 100 cots to Greenville, Miss.; 100 tents to Marksville, La.; 4000 bed sacks to Monroe, La.; 2000 bed sacks, 1000 blankets, 154 tents to Oak Grove, La.; 400 tents to Rhinehart, La.; 1000 blankets, 2000 mess kits to Rosedale, La.; 5000 blankets, 1600 cots, 5100 bed sacks, 400 tents to Vicksburg; 2500 bed sacks, 1500 blankets, 300 tents to Winnesboro, La.; 300 bed sacks to Yazoo City."

Extensive organization is necessary to carry on this work of distribution to the various locations, and after delivery comes the more detailed work of outfitting and feeding the refugees.—Moline Dispatch.

AFTER MOTHER'S DAY.

Mother's day is now behind us. It will be nearly a year before we again enjoy the spectacle of great commercial institutions taking up the cudgels for neglected motherhood.

In the interim we might, individually, take stock of ourselves. Are we the dutiful, thoughtful, loyal sons and daughters we might be? Did the flowers and candy we bought on Mother's Day go as atonement for a year of neglect?

Now is the time to think of those things—not a year from now, on the next Mother's Day. It takes a lot of flowers and candy and jewelry to make up for twelve months of selfish neglect.

IT'S A BARGAIN.

A Chicago building collapsed during a bargain rush. It was blamed on a steam shovel excavating next door, but you couldn't get a jury that would convict a mere steam shovel in a case like that. . . . Some of the bargain hunters didn't pay any attention when he walls fell on them. They only thought some woman had seen a $1 parasol for sale at $1.99 and was trying to get it. . . . Some of the experienced bargain hunters were injured, but none of the seasoned veterans had a scratch. It takes something heavier than a brick building to put a dent in a real bargain hunter.

CHOOSE YOUR WEAPONS.

Bellboys in a New York hotel are trained by an ex-marine. What are the boys going in for now—bayonets? . . . Maybe they're just taking a little grenade drill prior to a convention of Scottish clans. . . . Or, again the idea may be trench warfare from the bathtub when the sailors are in town.

THE TINYMITES

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

The swim the Tinies had was great and so they all stayed in real late. At noon old Duffy made some lunch which everyone enjoyed. Right after eating they sat down. The thought of swimming made them frown. To swim right after eating makes your stomach quite annoyed.

Then Duffy came forth with a skiff and said, "I'll take you boating if you all will keep real still and not attempt to rock the boat. To ride around is really fun. Come on now, bunch, it will be done." And then he hopped right in as soon as he'd removed his coat.

"Twas work to row around the stream. More work than you would ever dream, and Duffy don't grow very tired and took them up on shore. "Some other time we'll go again," said he, "I'll make a sail and then, we'll leave the cars behind us and we'll ride around some more." Said Clowdy, "That was really sport."

And then they heard a funny snort, and looking up they saw a beast that towered up in the air. "An elephant!" was Scouty said. "And yet it has a lion's head. I'd like to go and pat him, but I wonder if I dare."

Old Duffydoo laughed right out loud, and then he said, to all the crowd, "Why kee, he will not hurt you. He's as friendly as can be. Be kind to him and there's no harm, or any cause for real alarm. I'll show you how to treat him if you all will just watch me."

The elephant liked Duffydoo, and what he said was very true. He didn't try to bite the man or injure him at all. The Tinies found a ladder then, and Duffy loudly shouted when they put it up against his back. "Be careful, now, don't fall!"

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

AGAINST GASOLINE TAX.

Evening Telegraph—Your editorial in May 11th issue of The Telegraph regarding the passage of the Gasoline Tax is surely not the sentiment of the people of this district. Your article gives three reasons why it should be passed, namely:

First—On account of the cement plant located in Dixon and LaSalle.

Second—Harmon is not on the hard road program.

Third—Other states all around us have a tax.

In regard to the first reason: Every one will admit that an industry of any kind is a benefit to any community. You forget that we have a body of men living in Dixon, 99% of whom drive cars, and a monthly pay of over $5000. This money is sent here every month from the outside and is the salary of the large number of traveling men living in Dixon.

The U. C. T. sent a resolution which was printed in The Telegraph and copies to our representatives and senators protesting against this tax.

You will also find in issues of your paper that if we support the $100,000,000 tax bond that there would be no further tax. We feel that we are as big an institution as the cement plant and a good many own their own property inside the city limits, which is not true of the cement plant employees.

We are taxed on our cars when buying one, then personal, and are forced to carry liability insurance. Almost every town around us has a wheel tax, and what is to prevent the city council from adding this tax at any time.

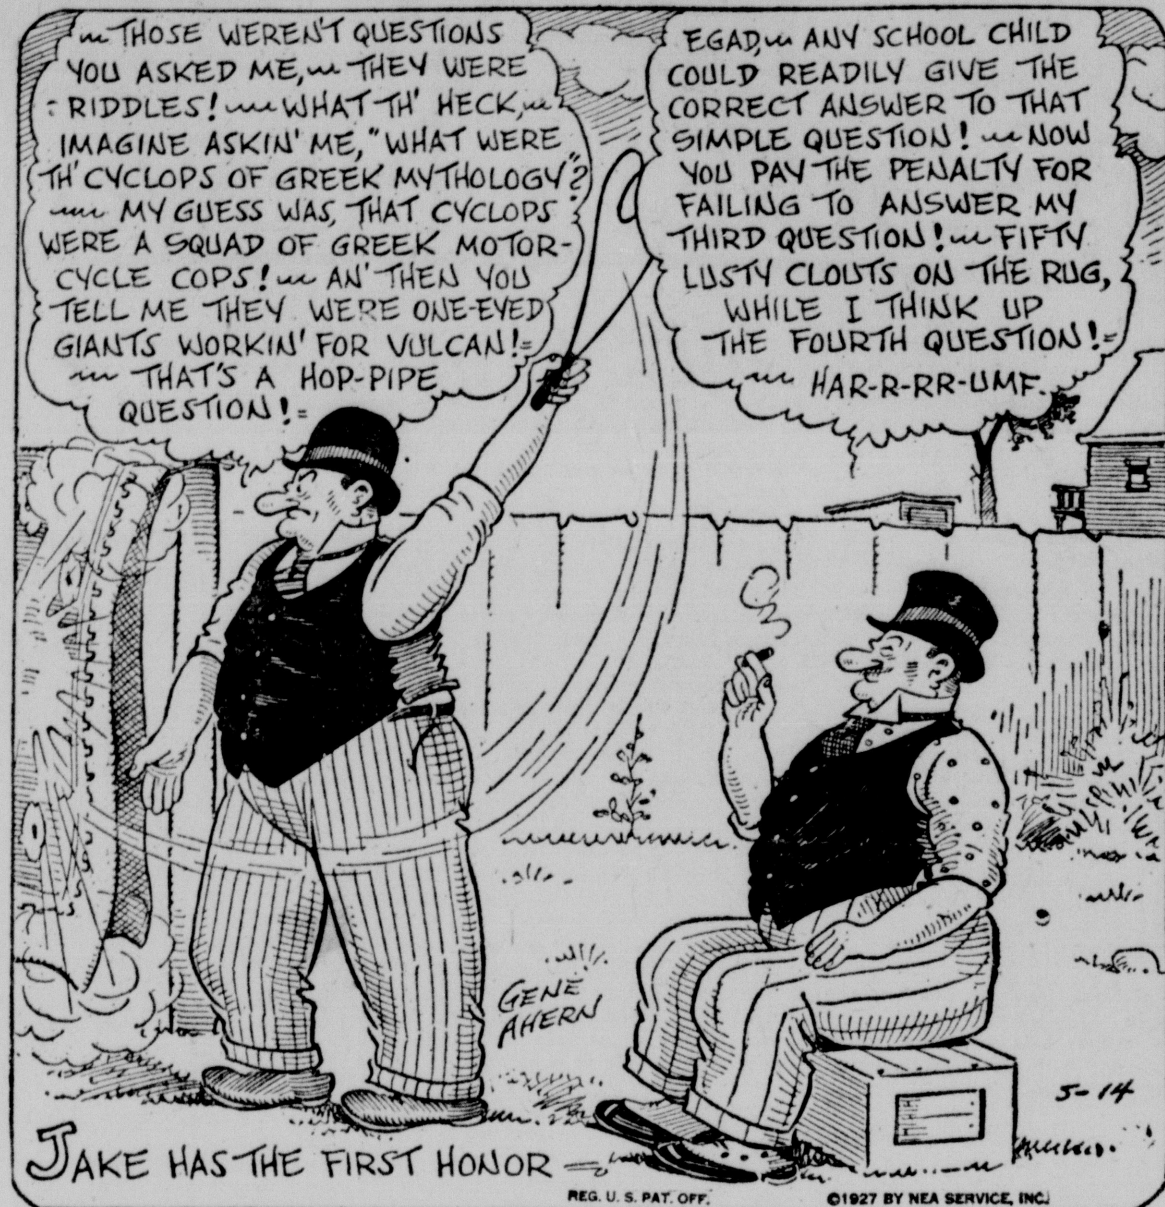

The cement plant and employees being outside the limits will not have this tax to pay.

Your second reason is O.K. as we would like to see all roads paved. However, it was never intended that every town and hamlet would have a hard road running through it.

The third reason can start quite an argument. It is true that a good many states have the gas tax, but none of them have a $100,000,000 bond issue. You will also note that the states who formerly had a 2c tax have raised it to a 3, 4 and 5c tax this year. Suppose we have the tax, compelling the tourist to pay for the use of the roads? He will probably buy 10 gallons to cross the state, spending 20c extra on account of the tax. In order to make him pay this 20c, you are asking us to pay $30.00 to $60.00 a year for the gasoline we buy.

The merchants of Dixon, who have delivery trucks, which never leave the city limits, are paying for something they will never receive.

Let us see how far the $100,000,000 will go. It will take another two or more years to spend this and then if the auto fees are not sufficient, no doubt we will all be in favor of this tax.

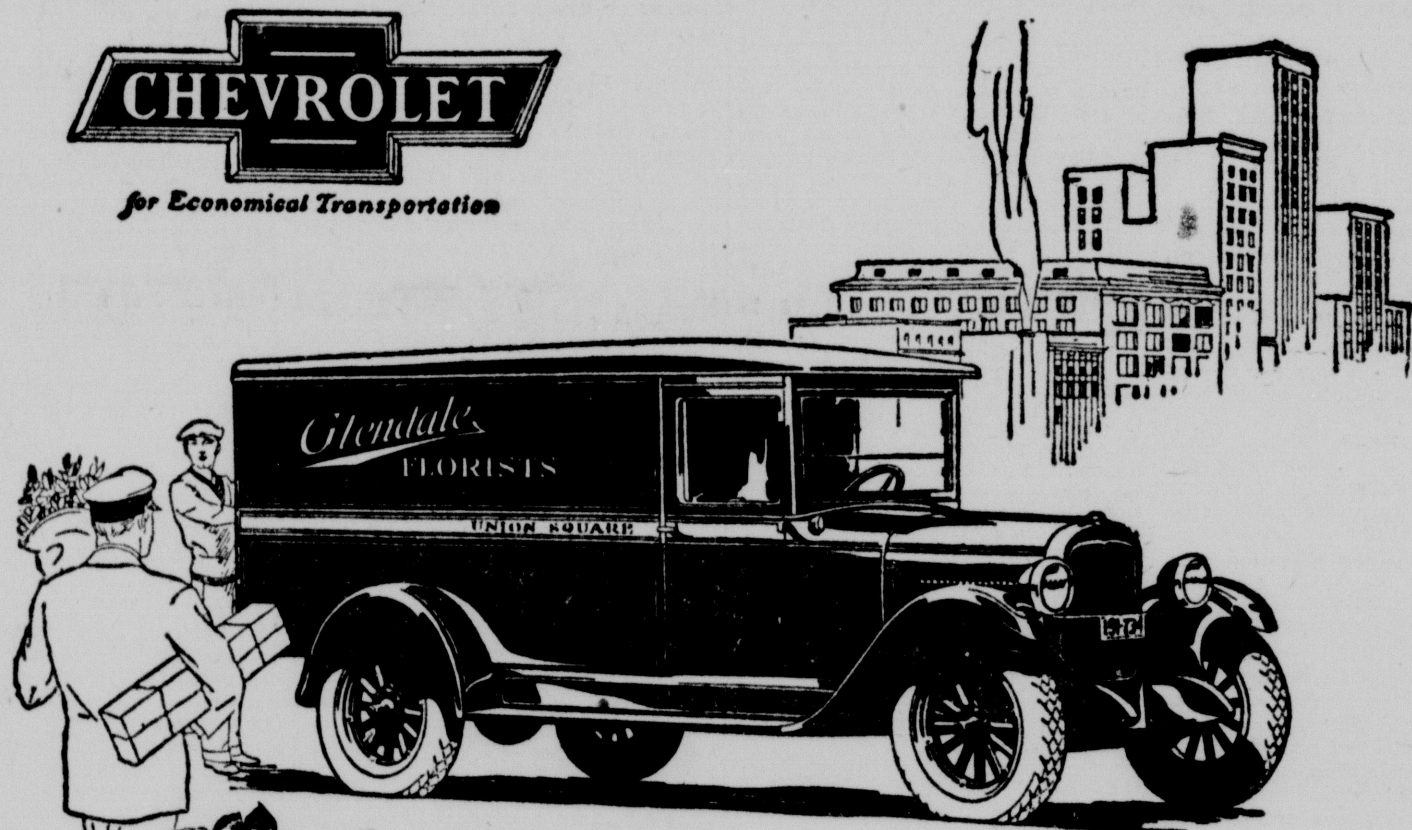

Look at the cars with the yellow tag who are not in favor of this tax and you will have to agree that there are a large number of them.

Every business man and car owner should write his Representatives and Senators not to vote for this tax at this time.

Respectfully,
H. H. Heinze,
Senior Counselor,
U. C. T.

What Every Girl Should Know

by GISA BRUCHONE

Copyright, 1927, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"WHAT EVERY GIRL SHOULD KNOW," with Patsey Ruth Miller, is a Warner Bros. pictorialization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
Mary "Elaine" Sullivan—slender, beautiful, red-headed—is an orphan. Wally Mason, a young reporter, loves Mary. But she disbelieves in love. Mary's elder brother, David, is sentenced to prison for an auto fatality. The Charity Department takes Bobby, the younger. Mary gets a job in a night club. It is raided. Mary, judged to have criminal influences, is sentenced to a reform school. She runs away to visit Bobby, who is ill. Arthur Graham, rich young man involved in David's conviction, intervenes in Mary's behalf. He invites her to live at his home.

"And so he will, Mary. There is a very delightful room in the second story of the house which a small boy like Robert will probably like. It leads into an old elm that has stood on the spot for ages. The house was almost built around it, and the window opens up into the tree."
"I'll, hi," chorled Robert. "I shall get astride my charger and gallop, gallop like that!" He rose on his knees and in his blue striped pajamas showed Mary and Arthur how he would gallop, were he on his favorite charger.
"Well," asked Arthur Graham, coming to her and taking her hand, "is it settled, then?"
He was so good. But what to do? She clasped her hands and her eyes pleaded with him.
"I can't, Mr. Graham. I can't."
"Why not, Mary?" He was a bit impatient.
"Your mother—" The grandness of Mrs. Mollie Graham had trickled through into even Mary's heedless young head.
"My mother's wishes are mine, Mary. I ask you to come in the name of the Grahams," with a flourish.

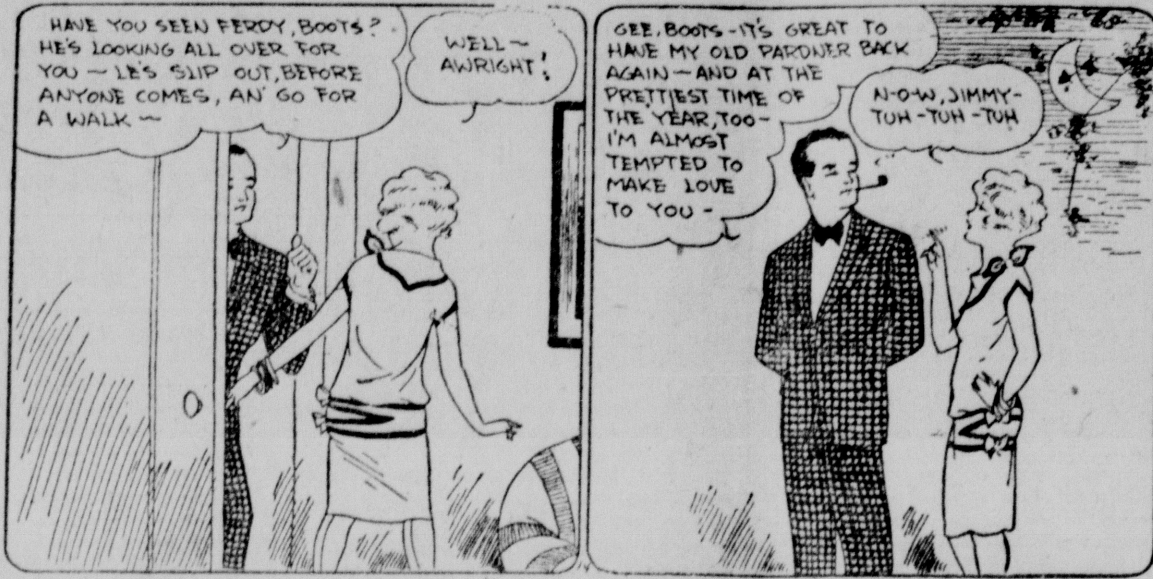

The luxury of it—Mary Sullivan having breakfast in bed.
ish. "Which includes B. Jasper. They're both good sorts, Mary. You'll get on splendidly."
To the indecision that wavered in her eyes, he resumed, "Where shall you go when you leave here, do you know?"
"There's Mrs. Tomlinson," and the mental picture of that good soul flashed into view.
"A woman with a family of her own, doubtlessly. Am I right?"
"Well—yes."
"And who else?"
"There's—Wally." There was Wally, of course. There was always Wally. He had been tucked into a crevice in her mind from which she removed him at will. He had offered her—various things, had Wally. Including help when she needed it. There was Wally.
"Who is Wally?" from Graham.
"He—" It was strangely difficult to speak of him. "He—he's a reporter for the Herald."
"Money?" Arthur continued his questioning.
"Well—no—I don't think so."
"Then how will he help?" triumphantly. "Why be a burden, my dear, when it is so much simpler to be a pleasure?"
And what was there to do? Arthur carried his point in great satisfaction, and with a few other careless gestures it was all arranged. Mary was to remain at the asylum until Bob was well enough to be moved, when both would be transferred to the Graham home, perched atop Garden City's loveliest bit of rolling verdure, transferred in Arthur's massive car, the car he had bought when a meat truck driven by Sullivan, Driver 37, had careened into and crushed the long-nosed tan roadster with the bronze Winged Victory.
Mary, transferred to the Graham home atop the gentle hill. Mary in the closest proximity to the charm that lay in Arthur's eyes in his rare moments of geniality—

CHAPTER XIII
The sudden dropping of Mollie Sumner Graham's jaw at the receipt of the news amused her son. It must be admitted that he had anticipated the moment of its telling with a keen relish that was foreign to his nature, heretofore.

"I don't understand," Mollie had murmured, and then, "Do I understand you right, Arthur?" Her hand went to her heart, which he affected not to notice.
"You understand alright, Mother. Mary and Robert Sullivan are coming to make their home with us for as long as they please—until the girl recovers from several shocks she's suffered lately. You've never heard anything like it, Mollie." He chose a cigarette from the little pile in the silver case at his elbow. "Why, mother, she—"
"I don't wish to listen to the tale of her escapades, Arthur," frigidly. "I will not have them in my home."
You could see the thickness of Arthur's jaw, which resembled that of Mollie, when he clamped down upon his teeth in that fashion.
"Mother—please."
"I said I will not have them in my home, Arthur!" The towering masses of Mollie's intricately fashioned white hair trembled.
The mild tones of old B. Jasper from the depths of the chair behind the library table. "You forget, Mollie, that this is Arthur's home, and mine also," he chided gently. He came from behind the chair, a dried outer skin of a man with almost nothing contained within. You felt if you poked him, there, the two sides of his body would touch. He, too, carried the Graham jaw, that became his face oddly. It seemed to pull at his cheeks, straining the yellow skin. It was as if two massive hands had crushed his face together, forcing the roundness of the cheek into the lower part of his face. And the beakiness of his jaw almost explained the reason for the head being carried as old B. Jasper carried it, always half turned about, as if listening to mysteries, and concocting others of his own.
"Eh, eh," he continued, wagging a playful forefinger at Mollie. "Mustn't think that, ever. Arthur's home, too, mine."
Turning, Arthur, he snapped suddenly, and his face seemed more askew than ever. "What's all this, boy?"
Arthur explained, finishing with, "I think we owe it to them, Father."
"Well—well," B. Jasper said testily, "owe it—owe it—I owe no man anything. Well, Mollie—why can't the children come and play here for a while?"
"Jasper," cried Mollie, hysterically, for she felt that banded together as they were, her objections would be overpowered. "Jasper, do you realize what that means? That will people say?" For Mollie Sumner Graham, despite the pinnacle upon which she ruled, played obedience to a still higher force.
"Let them come, Mollie," said old Jasper, "let them come. Feed roses into their cheeks. Like the girl's spirit. You couldn't do that, Mollie." He poked her in the ribs and chuckled. Arthur plucked the massive bulk of Mollie strained into the space between a boulder and an untrimmed straggles of hedge, and laughed.
Mollie gave in with a wan grace of smile, and had to be led from the room by Arthur. Her heart. It pained. Arthur dropped a kiss on the forehead of his mother, and murmured, "yes, mother," while his spirit chuckled. Mary and Robert, then, were transferred hither in the long grey car.
The luxury, the gracious spaciousness of everything contained beneath the Graham roof filled Mary with the spirit of its beauty. There was a grace about the home, an ease, an easy smoothness. The wheels of the machine went round, but you never saw the workings of the machinery. It was unlike the Home, where the process of running the place and keeping its meticulous order was visible to every naked eye. Mary loved the pink rose, heavy with the dew of the garden, that the maid left on her tray in the morning. Nobody at the Graham home was down for breakfast. B. Jasper had his at the office, and Arthur and Mollie breakfasted in bed. Rather than disarrange the schedule of the household, Mary had hers in bed, too. The luxury of it. Mary Sullivan, an edgy, an easy smoothness. The heady fragrance of the pink rose held to her cheek. Mary Sullivan, who a few short days before had been pushing the dripping mop toward the furthest outposts of the whitewashed walls. There was something wrong with a scheme of things that could permit the pushing of mops with wrists that were built for the graceful wielding of a racket.
There was a tennis court at the Graham home. It lay in the sun at the rear of the house, and since Mary's advent, had been remarked. Young Robert hugged his knees and watched, as Mary, in a costume as green as the blades of grass upon which he sat, tossed small round balls into the blue air. She swooped, she swirled and sook little running steps. She leaped and thrust forward and parried Arthur's clean, swift shots, and beat him handily.

Bootlegger-Murderer is Suicide During Pursuit

Red Field, S. D.—Death at his own hand ended a posse hunt for Walter Christman, alleged bootlegger who early today shot and killed two officers seeking to arrest him. While 400 armed posmen searched for the fugitive, he shot himself to death in a straw stack about five miles from his home, where he had killed the two officers.

SLIGHTERS of MIDAS

by Anne Austin

© 1927 by NEA Service Inc.

She left him there, with his memories of his son.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

T. Q. CURTIS, millionaire department store owner, takes BILLY WELLS, NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON from his store and places them in his home for one year, because he wants to help further ambitions each has expressed. Billy, who wants to be a concert violinist, is the only one that is serious. The others lie to enjoy his generosity.

Billy is infatuated with DAL ROMANINE, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, his hostess. She is harassed by the fear that he is "playing" both her and Winnie Shelton.

Through everything, she loves CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is living with Billy's mother in the poor part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night.

Unknown to T. Q., the girls learn he intends to adopt one of them when the year is up. Nyda and Winnie institute a series of intrigues to gain his affection. Billy loses interest in her violin and finally has a breakdown. T. Q. begins to question the wisdom of his philanthropic experiment when he finds that Nyda, for whom he has fitted a model kindergarten room in order to help her with her work, is not interested and is careless and unkind with the children under her care.

Relucting the girls need a change, he takes them to Europe for several months. Upon their return, they find the town in an upheaval over a Hindu fortune teller. All three girls are told personally to leave the town by the strange man, RALPH TRUMAN, a friend, says he believes the Hindu has an accomplice. When the Hindu and Dal Romanine disappear simultaneously, Billy recalls Dal's words and is vaguely troubled. She hears occasionally from Dal but his letters leave her unhappy. One night she passes Nyda's room and hears Nyda and a man quarreling.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVIII

WHEN the calamity which Billy had feared did break with violence upon the Curtis household, she found that her sixth sense had played her false in only one particular—Winnie Shelton was not hurt or involved in it in any unpleasant way. Her position was merely strengthened by her obvious innocence of any wrongdoing in that instance, at least.

Billy was to wonder many times after the whole ugly drama was over why she had not been acute enough to suspect far more than she had of what was going on in Nyda's tormented mind. For instance, why had her usually alert mind not registered the fact that Nyda Lomax had taken an acute but furtive interest in the safe in the library?

Old T. Q. had made no effort to keep the girls from knowing about the safe and its contents, nor had he been even reasonably careful in working the combination in their presence. He had insisted that they keep their jewelry in the safe when they were not actually wearing it. The value of the entire collection did not exceed ten thousand dollars, but one night, when handing out their "kewgaws," as he called them, to the girls, he had taken a small camels bag from the safe and had shown them half a dozen large, unset diamonds.

And later Billy wondered why she had not been alarmed at the look of greed in Nyda's eyes as they watched, with almost ferocious intentness, every turn and twist of T. Q.'s fingers as they worked the combination of the safe.

Later, when suspicion of the robbery of T. Q.'s library safe fell upon herself, Billy could remember those curious and wonderful at her own stupidity. How easy she had been! How blindly she had played into Nyda's hands that night before the robbery!

Winnie was not at home that night. She was at the bedside of her father, who was ill with pneumonia. And because a doctor had sat all night by the desperately sick man's bedside, too, her alibi was perfect.

Billy and Nyda had spent the evening at home, Nyda supposedly in bed all the time with a "raging" headache, according to the message she sent down to Mrs. Meadows and T. Q. at the dinner hour. After dinner Billy played her violin for the two old people, concluding the short program with Clay Curtis' lovely, lilting, somehow sad little song, "To an Autumn Day."

Mrs. Meadows went away early, and the girl and the old man sat for an hour, talking first of inconsequential things, and, finally, of Clay Curtis.

"Mother says his sympathy is almost finished. I told you he was writing a symphony called 'The Song of Toll,' didn't I? Professor Savatelli says he believes Clay will make a great success with it—not a financial success, but an artistic success. Clay has been to Chicago, mother says, and has heard the first two movements of it played by a symphony orchestra there, as a favor to him, of course."

"An artistic success is all right," T. Q. frowned to hide the light of pride in his stern gray eyes. "But how about a little financial success? Does the fool boy intend to work in a factory the rest of his life?"

Billy bristled instantly in defense of Clay, though her heart throbbed with a dull ache at the mention of his name. "If you took any interest in popular songs, Daddy Curtis, you'd know that Clay is already on the road to financial success. He wrote a sentimental little song—words and music, both—called 'Light o' Love,' that is being featured in a musical comedy in New York, and that everyone's singing and whistling and waiting to right now. He may make a fortune on it—no foolish little tune, but a tune that gets into your blood and haunts your dreams."

FRANKLIN GROVE NEWS NOTES

OBITUARY

Franklin Grove.—J. E. Terry Johnson was born in Franklin Grove, Ill., April 23, 1890 and died May 3, 1927 at Sunmount Sanitarium, Santa Fe, New Mexico, aged 37 years and 10 days.

He grew to manhood in this place, graduating from the local high school. He was always an industrious boy, working in a store during his school days. After graduation he went to Michigan and later to Chicago, where he secured employment with the Quaker Oats Company where he was promoted from time to time until at the time of his death he held a very responsible position with that company.

In 1918 he was married to Miss Helen Shealey of Chicago, the wedding occurring in New York City, before he sailed for France as a soldier in the World War. Two children were born to them, one dying in infancy, the other, a son, Terry McLean, four months old surviving with the mother. Two sisters and two brothers are left to mourn the death of a kind brother, Mrs. Dollie Maronde and Mrs. Dorothy Hatch, George John of this place and Jesse N. Johnson of Morrison all of whom were present at the funeral in Chicago.

Deceased was a faithful and ambitious worker. He was enthusiastic, both in his labor and as a friend, being possessed of a cheerful, hopeful character. His co-workers, his many friends, his relatives will ever remember him.

He was a 32nd degree Mason of Lodge No. 826, Chicago, also a member of the Elks organization. The Masonic fraternity had charge of the services at Hensel Chapel, Chicago, Friday afternoon, with interment in Acacia Park cemetery in that city. Those attending the funeral from a distance were: Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Johnson, Morrison, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hatch, Mrs. Orville Maronde, George Johnson and F. J. Krehl of this place.

The Kilo Club enjoyed a social time Tuesday at the Camp Ground at which time the losers, Mrs. Lulu Smith, Mrs. Anna Crawford, Mrs. Carrie Crawford and Mrs. Grace Stultz entertained the winners. Owing to the cold weather the happy event was held in the Smith cottage. A lovely time is reported by those present.

Miss Flora Wicker entertained the members of her Sunday school class Thursday night, the affair being a surprise on Miss Peterson, a member of the class and was one of the most successful surprises ever carried out. The amusement for the evening was progressive bunco, at which Miss LaCross won head prize and Miss Helen Ling second. During the evening refreshments were served.

Mrs. Harold Spratt of Chicago is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Patch.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ralsinger in the Dixon hospital Monday, a daughter, named Elaine Marie. The mother will be remembered as Miss Minnie Miller.

The Aid Society of the Methodist church will serve another of their famous suppers in the basement of the church next Thursday night May 19, from 5 to 7 o'clock. The committee having the supper in charge, Mrs. J. H. Lincoln, Mrs. F. J. Good Health Keeps a Woman Young

Elkhart, Ind.—"For some time I suffered from bearing pains and backache, my nerves were in such condition that the least thing would completely upset them. I would go all to pieces. I had black rings around my eyes and was barely able to drag myself around to do my little housework. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it relieved me of all inward trouble, restored my nerves and made me well and strong. I have never suffered with any of the above conditions since."

The social committee of the Franklin Grove Woman's club, consisting of Mrs. Stella Senger, chairman, Mrs. Florence Herwig, Mrs. Elizabeth Durkes and their helpers, Mrs. Jesse Dymart, Mrs. Mary Burhenn, Mrs. John Cover and Mrs. William Herwig, held their May Breakfast Wednesday, May 11 at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Durkes. Small tables were placed throughout the rooms with a corsage bouquet of violets for each lady, accommodating thirty-three members and one honored guest, Mrs. Mabel Dow of Brooklyn, N. Y. The menu consisted of pork loaf, new potatoes, asparagus on toast, buns, salad, coffee, angel-food cake, ice cream, strawberries. The ladies did full justice to the most excellent breakfast, which was followed by a short business meeting which resulted in Mrs. Anna Buck being elected second vice president, taking the place of Miss Alice Thornton, as a member can hold the same office more than two years, Mrs. Mae Gross and Mrs. Katherine Cover were elected two new directors, taking the place of Mrs. Anna Buck and Mrs. Grace Withey, retiring officers. Motion was made to have the chairman, Mrs. Grace Withey, of the civic department, write our state representative, that "We as a club are not in favor of having the prohibition bill repealed." Mrs. Hannah Conlon, Mrs. Minnie Brown and Mrs. Ruby Reigle gave short but very interesting talks concerning their trip to the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs of the 13th Illinois district, held at Morrison, May 5 and 6. The meeting was very helpful in every way. By request Mrs. Mabel Dow, a member of the Phalo Woman's club of New York, the second oldest club in the United States, gave a splendid talk concerning her trip abroad. Mrs. Dow is a very pleasing and interesting speaker. It was considered one of the best talks that the club has ever had the privilege of listening to, also the fact being that Mrs. Dow is a former Franklin Grove girl, being remembered as Mabel Black, made her talk more interesting. At the close of the talk she very graciously answered all questions that the ladies asked her. Mrs. Dow received much from her trip and was able to give much information to the ladies in her talk. The May meeting of the club was a most decided and complete success in every way.

An Ex-Buck PRIVATE goes back to FRANCE by PAUL ADAMS NEA Service

More and more evidence of the First A. E. F.

At Tours.....the skipper of a barge on the Chana du Cher, which runs into the Loire river. He is wearing the lower part of a Sam Brown belt.

From Tours to Romorantin the American telephone line is still in operation. It is easily distinguished from the French line on the other side of the road because it holds nine wires instead of three. The French are using it now.

Near Romorantin the Q. M. C. Post Exchange No. 4 has been adapted by a peasant as a residence de luxe.

At Selles-sur-Cher an American army ambulance with the top of the body removed—in the back are eight goats.....the peasant driving is on his way to market.

Mud, of Course.

At St. Agony.....the "Buvette du Depart" and on those flats down by the river where the camp once stood there is mud.....mud.....and beautiful mud.

At Pruilliers.....a huge pile of rusty tin cans in a wide field.....on some of these cans the markings may still be distinguished....."Bully Beef"....."Beans".....Goldfish."

The Rue du President Wilson in Romorantin.

In Gievres.....a black-mustached paper "boy" announces a fresh edition of a Paris newspaper by blowing musical blasts on a horn....."Fish"....."Fresh Fish".....How many ex-A. E. F.ers will want to come back here?

A sign on the wall at Monthousier-Cher: "To Tours."

Another sign, painted in black on a stone house: "Officers—4; Men—120."

In every town, variously distributed throughout the billet areas, are written the names of corporals, sergeants and the well-known privates. One finds them carved in the soft stones in the wall of a corner buvette and on the statuary in the feudal castles along the Loire. No clean space was exempt, and many of the monickers and initials, scrawled in pencil in 1918, still glow plainly.

Some of the carvings will be legible in future centuries—for curious tourists to stare at—and maybe pay five francs to an enterprising property owner for the privilege.

Many of the American Legionnaires will feel at home down here.

mixtures of kerosene, turpentine and lard, and gave short, peppery interviews to the indefatigable reporters.

"Reckon she ain't gonna die, though the Lord knows this picking on an innocent child and hauling her into court and trying her for murder when she's never hurt a fly in her life is enough to kill us all," Aunt Hattie snapped at the reporters.

"Now, clear out, all of you! I got my work to do and an invalid on my hands."

"You know, Bob," Faith told her sweetheart when he came that night, "the most terrible thing about it 's the fact that we're all getting used to it—to first page notoriety, to our pictures all over the papers, to seeing Cherry's name in headlines. I would have sworn that the disgrace would have killed us all, but we're all alive, except poor mother, and Dad is even a little bit proud, though it would break his heart if he heard me say so. Now tell me about today. Dad's paper didn't have any very exciting headlines."

But Faith did not go to court the next day. Churchill himself came to forbid her appearance that day, arriving before nine, while Faith was weekly resisting Aunt Hattie's efforts to keep her in bed.

"Just small stuff," Bob told her, as he drew his chair close to the bed and reached for her hands. "Old Preston, the insurance man that Cherry worked for before she went into Uncle Ralph's office, testified that Cherry was a nice girl, that she didn't try to gold-dig him, and that she quit of her own accord. Pretty decent of him, considering the fact that she quit after she had slapped his face for trying to kiss her."

"Oh, it was sweet of him!" Faith cried, her eyes misting with tears. "Who else testified?"

"A couple of detectives told of seeing automobile tire tracks in the fresh snow, in the alley, when they were searching for the murderer. One set of tracks, they swore, turned west, just beyond the end of the driveway and headed back up the alley—west, you know, the way the car had come. That corroborates Sanders' testimony about the taxicab. Then your fiancé, Mr. Robert Lee Hathaway, got in his full and complete story of the mysterious footprints."

"Oh, Bob! And I missed it!" Faith mourned, laying his hand against her cheek.

"Glad you did," Bob chuckled. "Old Banning got my goat on cross examination and we almost came to blows. But Churchill managed to get my measurements of the funny footprints before the jury as exhibit B for the defense."

"What did you and Banning row about?" Faith laughed.

"Oh, he tried to insinuate that I might have killed Uncle Ralph myself—jealousy motive, you know, because I'd once been engaged to Cherry. Pretty raw, but I suppose all's fair in our so-called courts of justice. Churchill got my version of the Saturday night party at the Marlboro Country Club, to offset Aunt Alice's damaging testimony against Cherry. And—I lied, Faith. That's why I said I'm glad you weren't there."
